READING

1. Read the text 'The things people do for fun' and do the exercise 1.1

A Gorge walking

At its most intense, gorge walking requires even more nerve than something as obviously daunting as bungee jumping. It should never be done alone, and the ratio of instructor to client should not exceed 6.1. Often the route that you take follows the course of a young river, going where the water goes, which means when you encounter a waterfall with a deep enough pool, you jump-sometimes as much as 12 metres. Gorge-walking is always exhausting, drenching and challenging to your courage-or lack of it. Surprisingly, no serious incidents have yet been reported from commercial companies who organise the sport, although it is not yet well-established and is potentially very dangerous; the routes often have real hazards, perhaps making you zip across a narrow ravine faster than you ever thought you wanted to go, your legs dangling in the void.

B Diving with sharks

Nothing in the sea fascinates people like great white sharks, and off an island 200 miles north west of Tahiti, divers are guaranteed to see dozens of them. The diving centre prides itself on taking small groups of divers out to the area where the sharks come to breed and feed, but this is not without risk- there are strong water currents and groups of divers must be small. But what about the risks from the sharks themselves? Shark divers are apparently rarely a target for sharks, but certain species do have to be treated with special caution-among them the great whites. Commercial companies have been running shark feeding dives for more than a decade without serious incident; in fact, some believe that human activities are more of a threat to the sharks rather than vice versa. Even so, it is not for the fainthearted!

C Ice-boating

Sailing on ice started in Europe in the 1600s, when sailing boats were fitted with runners and used for moving cargo on frozen canals in the Netherlands. Now it is the fastest sailing and non-powered sport in the world. In temperatures of about -11°C, the speed that these craft can reach sailing over the ice means that the wind-chill factor is -43°C – and frostbite is a real danger. The pilot lies almost flat on his back, pinned to his seat by a speed that can increase from 60-100 mph in 2 seconds-faster than a Formula One car. But unlike car drivers, there are no brakes, the pilot has no seatbelt or protection of any kind. Less than 5 mm of fibreglass separates him from destruction-and weather conditions play an important part. Yet many are prepared to risk it.

D Canoeing down waterfalls

Place a blunt tube over a vertical drop with tons of water cascading over it, and then let yourself go. Those who have done it say that going over a waterfall in a canoe, or kayak, is an amazing experience, although full of danger. Every item of equipment has to be specially manufactured or customised for the individual, and spinal injury is the biggest risk. Even if the fall itself does not cause injury, there are hidden dangers from rocks or trees in the waterfall itself. Iceland, with its hundreds of waterfalls and rapids, offers many exciting challenges to the extreme white water kayaker-but this is an activity limited to a very small number of adventurers who are prepared to take the very real risk.

1.1 For questions 1-12 choose from the activities A-D. Write your answers, correct letters A-D, on the blank lines

An acting career

My younger sister is a 0..... star of stage and screen, or at least that's what she tells me. Last week she had an 1..... It was for the 2..... of Juliet in Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. It went well and she starts 3.....next week. This is the first 4..... that she has been in, but she's done quite a lot of TV 5..... work and she's also been in a couple of films. The last film she was in was called The Magician. It was set in ancient Egypt and she was in a crowd 6..... with thousands of other people. When I went to see it I sat in the front 7..... so that I could see the 8..... really clearly, but I still couldn't pick out my sister in the crowd. She says the 9..... was one of the best professionals she has worked with but I must say the 10..... seemed a bit stupid to me. It was all 11..... a very clever magician who had managed to travel back through time to the court of Tutankhamen. The 12..... were magnificent and so were some of the sets but having an actor saying 13..... in present day American English just didn't work. The 14..... was really ridiculous. The magician got accidentally buried with Tutankhamen. Funnily enough, the rest of the 15..... seemed to have rather enjoyed the film.
